

February 17, 2004

To Whom It May Concern:

Last summer (2003) we contracted Alex's company "Tuition Painters" to power wash and paint the exterior of our home in Short Pump. While examining and power washing the house, we discovered significant damage to the siding all around the house, as well as a lot of damage and rot around some of our windows and doors. Since the painting was scheduled to begin the next day, we were in a bind for a contractor. Fortunately, Alex was able to contact George to come out late that afternoon. He assessed the damage and gave us a reasonable estimate. Since we were on a tight schedule to get the painting done, he began work immediately.

The repairs were done effectively and blend seamlessly with the unaffected areas of the house. George was prompt, helpful, and professional, and he shuffled his schedule to accommodate our emergency. We were able to get our repairs done and have the house painted in the same week, and the estimate was very reasonable, particularly considering the quality of the work. We really appreciated his quick response—he was working on the house the next morning after giving us the estimate the evening before. George was a lucky find for us. I would recommend him to anyone who needs this kind of trim and siding repair and we will certainly contact him again for any needs within his general areas of contracting.

Thanks very much George,

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Chris and Beth Saladino". The signature is written in a cursive, flowing style.

Chris and Beth Saladino
2701 Glen Point Circle
Richmond, VA